REPORT
OF THE
Superintending School Committee
FOR SCHOOL DISTRICT NO. 1,
IN THE TOWN OF ROLLINSFORD,
FOR YEAR ENDING MARCH, 1891.

March 1891 reminds us that another school year has closed and that a report is in order.

Our High School has been taught by Mr. H. L. Allen, with the same satisfactory results that have always attended Mr. Allen's labors since he has had charge of the school. The average attendance has been twenty-one for the year.

The Grammar School, under Mrs. Sara F. G. Nowell, has sustained its good reputation, with an attendance of thirty.

Miss Anna L. Wentworth, the first two terms, taught the Intermediate School in her usual good manner; the third term of the year has been under the management of Miss Lizzie M. Warren, who has been a teacher in our town schools with good success, and thus far has given entire satisfaction to your committee. The average attendance in this school has been thirty-five.

The Primary School, under Miss Nellie F. Lord, has the past year kept fully up to the good work which Miss Lord has always given us in this department ; average attendance for the year, sixty-four. At the beginning of the fall term, we found a large number of Primary scholars that could not be accommodated in the school building, and suggested to the Prudential Committee that an outside school be started and maintained the balance of the year, thus taking care of the matter until the annual meeting of the District, when some action can be taken in the premises. Miss May Lord has had charge of this school, which has been held in the Selectmen's room in this village, and has proved herself to be very successful at the business.

O. S. BROWN,
J. Q. A. WENTWORTH,
F. E. BRIGHAM,

School Com. of District No. 1.

OF
THE SCHOOL BOARD
OF THE
TOWN OF ROLLINSFORD,
FOR
THE YEAR ENDING MARCH 10, 1891.

The School Board of the town of Rollinsford, according to the requirements of law, and a long established custom, make the following report of the condition of the schools under their jurisdiction.

The teachers who have taught in the different schools in district No. 2 during the year past, are as follows: In the Sullivan School, Miss Nellie B. Arthur during the year. In the Quamphegan School, Mrs. Lizzie Litchfield during the spring term, and Miss Clara W. Garvin during the remainder of the year. In the Rollins School, Miss Lizzie M. Warren during the spring and summer terms, and Mrs. Etta Goodwin during the winter term. In the Turnpike School, Miss Mary Gage during the spring term, and Miss Jennie M. Goodwin the summer school, and five weeks of the winter term. She then resigned, and Miss Sylvia M. Wells took the school, and finished up the remainder of the term successfully.

All these schools with a single exception, that of the Turnpike, have been well trained and under good discipline, without which no school, however well instructed, can make good proficiency. Most of our teachers have had a wide experience in their profession, and have diligently devoted themselves to the work before them, and their pupils have shown an unusual interest in study, in consequence of which the progress made has fully justified our highest expectations.

We feel it here a duty to make a few remarks upon subjects of vital importance to the well being and success of our schools.

There can be no greater error than to suppose our schools are benefited by a frequent change of teachers. It can only be so when a poor one has been employed. A good teacher is always worth more to her school each succeeding term than that preceding. The reason of which is obvious. Good teachers are hard to obtain and when engaged and found successful, should be kept as long as possible. Not every one armed with a diploma from some Normal School or other celebrated institution of learning, is thereby qualified to discipline, conduct, and teach a school successfully. The true teacher, like the poet, "Is born not made." No qualifications, however great, can insure success to one who has not in her a love and adaptation for the work. No exact rule can be given a teacher, the adopting of which will insure success. Every instructor should use her own method for imparting knowledge, for that is best suited to her. General rules may be given, which may benefit, but particular and exact methods cannot always safely be followed. David could not use the armor of Saul, but in his own chosen way could accomplish what even Saul could not. So it is with teachers. They are all aiming at the same high mark, and she most readily reaches it, who does not forget her own peculiar method of instruction in borrowing that of another. And here we would remark, that parents should be slow to heed evil reports of the school from their children. There is no one but will find that through a child who is encouraged in such a course, reports will increase daily, and will be sure to be magnified to suit the occasion. The child also, instead of attending to his studies as is his duty, will be watching for something new to report each succeeding day. There is no surer method of injuring a school and ruining a child, than by thus encouraging him in this hateful practice. He at once sets himself up as a judge of what is right and what is wrong in relation to the management of the teacher in the school, and she, who deviates from his idea in this respect, is out of her place in his estimation, and unfit to teach. This would be only laughable if it were confined merely to the child, and went no further. But there are many parents and others, who form their estimate of a teacher, and of her qualifications and school, by the daily reports of disaffected children. They are even questioned on this matter, and their account is looked upon as true and honest, and to be credited without further investigation. Can we not all remember how it was with ourselves when children? Did we not love those teachers best who were the most indulgent and gave us the most liberties, and were the least exacting that our lessons should be well learned and thoroughly understood, while those who exacted from us strict obedience and correct recitations, were disliked and thought unkind? But years of experience have reversed our ideas in this matter. We see clearly now, that those only labored for our good who looked beyond the present, who chided, and even punished us, when the object for which they labored could not otherwise be accomplished. And we too, see as clearly that those who indulged us, who spoke honeyed words when they should have been severe, who permitted us to be indolent and careless in our recitations, and indulged us to do as we desired, lest they might offend us and thereby lose our love and approbation, were not looking forward to our all important future when life to us would be a stern reality, and the hours then wasted would be regretted throughout its remaining period. The minds of children are not sufficiently developed in reason and understanding to judge correctly in matters pertaining to schools.

What family would be willing, however correct their lives might be, to have their every act daily reported to the public, without such modifications as would present those acts in their true light? And would not a servant who was so lost to honor as thus to betray his trust, be summarily dismissed from service as unfit for confidence or to be relied on? We all know as parents, the difficulty, at times, even in subjecting our own children to such obedience as is necessary to sustain family discipline. And how can it be expected that the teacher, with a whole car load of children thrown upon her, whom she is to discipline and instruct, to whom it would be certain ruin to indulge in the school room, as the parent might with impunity be allowed to, at home; we say, how can it be expected that she will always give soft and sweet words, and unrestrained liberties when it is her duty as often as there is occasion, to chide, reprove, and if necessary, use such punishment as will enforce obedience. That teacher who acts otherwise, whose eye is not constantly on the future good of her pupils, should be dismissed as unworthy of confidence, to seek employment in some less responsible vocation.

A. W. PIKE,
W. R. GARVIN,
GEO. H. YEATON.
